❖ WORKING WONDERS FOR SINGLE & TEEN

PARENTS...When Janelle came to Rosalie Hall, a ShareLife agency, she was a young, single mother suffering from a decade-old abusive relationship. Emotionally unstable and with low esteem, she was relying on Employment Insurance to live. Rosalie Hall helped Janelle regain her strength and independence. Today, hoping for a brighter future for her and her child, she has left the abusive relationship she was in and is studying to be a social worker. In 2009, ShareLife agencies provided help to more than 11,000 young people – offering counselling to 1,964 pregnant youth and young mothers. Today is the 2nd ShareLife Collection. Your support will sustain the work of our ShareLife agencies. Please give generously. You can work WONDERS!

Miklós Radnóti (5 May 1909 – 10 November 1944)

"The poem gains its form like the raindrop. The water gathers, takes form, lengthens, then it falls off and while falling, it forms a perfect drop." (Miklós Radnóti)

One of the eminent poets of the 20th century, Radnóti translated widely from classical Greek and Latin as well as English, French and German poetry. "He framed poetic innovation in the pattern of the lyrical tradition, combining the classical forms of the ancients with modern sensibilities. Essentially, the more chaotic and barbaric the age, the tighter and more refined became his poems' designs. Some poems, cast in ancient meters, ring with prophetic power. Others, in delicate invented forms, create the most exquisite crystalline tones. They produce magic, conjuring up the unprecedented without becoming obscure." (Zsuzsanna Ozsváth)

1909: born in Budapest . 1929-34: while studying French and Hungarian at the University of Szeged, he joined the Art Forum of Szeged Youth, an association founded by left wing intellectuals and artists. 1934: obtained Ph.D. in Hungarian Literature. He moved to Budapest, got married and became a frequent contributor to Nyugat (Occident), a very prestigious literary journal, as a member of its "third generation". 1937: won the prestigious Baumgarten Prize. 1931-39: three visits to Paris. 1938: according to anti-Jewish measures he was identified as a Jew and called up to a labour battalion for three months (in 1940), then ten months (1942-43). 1943 converted to Catholicism as the result of a decade long attraction toward Christ and of the influence his former professor of literature, the Piarist priest Sándor Sík, and also because of his earlier decision ("around the age of Christ – 33 – I'll ask for baptism"). 1944: after the occupation of Hungary by the Nazi Germany he was deported to the labour camp in Bor (Yugoslavia), forced to march towards Germany, and shot dead by soldiers of the armed forces near a West-Hungarian village, Abda. - In his poems he identifies himself very strongly as a Hungarian.

Foamy sky

The moon sways on a foamy sky,
I am amazed that I live.
An overzealous death searches this age and those it discovers are all so very pale.

At times the year looks around and shrieks,
looks around and then fades away.
What an autumn cowers behind me again
and what a winter, made dull by pain.

The forest bled and in the turning clock blood flowed from every hour.
Large and looming numbers were scribbled by the wind onto the snow.

I lived to see that and this,
the air feels heavy to me.
A warm sound-filled silence hugs me
as before my nativity.

I stop here at the foot of a tree,
its crown swaying angrily.
A branch reaches down -- to grab my neck?
I'm not a coward, nor am I weak, just tired. I listen. And the frightened branch explores my hair.

To forget would be best, but I have never forgotten anything yet.

Foam pours over the moon and the poison draws a dark green line on the horizon.

I roll myself a cigarette slowly, carefully. I live.

--Tajtékos ég, translated by Gina Gönczi

Lines from "Razglednicas"

I fell beside him and his corpse turned over, tight already as a snapping string.
Shot in the neck. "And that's how you'll end too,"
I whisper to myself; "lie still; no moving.
The flower of patience is death." Then I could hear "Der springt noch auf," above, and very near.
Blood mixed with mud was drying on my ear.
